VOCABULARY PRACTICE

2:48 That's why I was desperate for those kinds of social interactions. It stemmed from insecurity.

Although I don't think it was fully out of my insecurity. I think there is also part of me that just wanted to have a good time and, like, hang out with people, but I do think that more than that, it was because I kind of wanted reassurance. I wanted reassurance from being invited in the first place, that was validating, but then, on top of that, I wanted reassurance once I was there, because if I got attention from people, then that would mean that maybe, just maybe I wasn't so bad after all, because, again, self-esteem was in the trash.

8:49 There are still assholes at these parties that will be rude to you, give you the cold shoulder.

12:04 When people are drinking too much, inevitably drama starts. You know, you have your friends puking, people become belligerent...

12: 59 That's what I think partying should be about. It should be about getting a little buzzed and just feeling loose but still being there.

18:40 – it's hard to start a conversation – sober and out of thin air.

25:12 Even if you bring your significant other to a party.
